BOARD OF TRADE EXECUTIVE MEETING

A meeting of the executive of the Blairmore Board of Trade was held last night in the office of the Crow's Nest Pass Motors.

There were present, President Morgan, Secretary Mr. Bill Treasurer, Mr. W. A. Henderson and members—Mr. Dutil, McKee, Beebe, Ferguson, Knapman, Gillis, Scott, Bartlett, Gray, McLeod and others.

The minutes of previous meetings were read and approved.

A communication from the Crow's Nest Pass Motors was read, offering to inspect and repair the roads on the committee and maintain same for the summer months. Matter was left to be dealt with by committee.

The following committees were appointed:

Subscription Committee—W. Bird, W. A. Henderson.

Camp Committee—W. A. Henderson, A. E. Ferguson, Knapman, F. Hall, J. Gillis, L. Dutil.

Entertainment Committee—W. A. Beebe, R. Gray, A. McLeod.

It is proposed to put up a large sign on the grounds and smaller signs directing to the eastern and western entrances, Third and Fifth Avenues.

The Camp Committee were allowed to make additions to the camp kitchen.

Mr. Dutil offered to supply swings for the benefit of tourist children. His offer was referred to committee as all likelihood will be accepted.

Communication was read from Commissioner Dinning in reply to a letter addressed by the Blairmore Board of Trade and others to the appointment of an outsider as local vendor. Mr. Dinning had stated that very careful consideration had been given to the matter and that Mr. Hall was a returned soldier, suffering partial disability; and that it should be very apparent to the people of the Crow's Nest Pass that a man of his character would be a good neighbor in this district. He felt satisfied that Mr. Hall was possessed of the proper material.

The communication was ordered filed.

A number of members of the Board turned out yesterday afternoon and gave the grounds a once-over with rakes, cleaning them up nicely and burning most of the rubbish.

Dr. Neilson, who for a year or so has been conducting a dental parlor at Coleman, left last week end with his family for Calgary, where they will reside in future.

WILL EXTEND SIDEWALK AND GRADE VICTORIA ST.

A special meeting of the town council was held on Monday afternoon to consider the advisability of grading Victoria Street and building some extensions to the Victoria Street concrete sidewalk.

All members of the council were present. The meeting was presided over by Mayor McLeod. Mr. G. A. Vissac, general manager of the West Canadian Collieries, and Mr. J. K. Smith, of the same company, were also in attendance.

Mr. Vissac, on behalf of his company, offered to furnish three motor trucks and chauffeurs, provided the town would co-operate in the grading of Victoria Street, west as far as the southwest corner of the Green property.

This the council agreed upon, and a resolution was passed to the effect that immediate steps be taken to sacrifice and grade to its proper level the street from Tenth Avenue to the extreme west limit of the town; also to erect a retaining wall along that portion immediately east of the Union Bank building to a point adjoining a similar wall to be erected by Messrs. Überling and Beebe in front of lots owned by them in Block 2.

Council would also immediately build a nine-foot concrete sidewalk on Block 12, between the general office of the West Canadian Collieries and the corner of First Avenue, A, terms to be similar to those already in effect, whereby one third of the cost of same be chargeable to owners of property in that section.

It was estimated that the retaining wall would in all cost in the neighborhood of $1200, portion of which, of course, would be contracted for by Messrs. Überling and Beebe.

At this point it will be necessary to reduce the street grade by some three feet and the material taken therefrom would be ample to fill as far as the railway spur. As considerable filling would be necessary practically all the way from the Green corner to Fifth Avenue, it would be at least six months before the building of concrete sidewalk over that section could be undertaken, so it was proposed to temporarily surface that section with shale. Cinder and coal from the old mine dump would be used to fill in west of the spur.

The entire council agreed that the above work should be done and undertaken at once, and in all likelihood the work will commence on Monday next.

By resolution of the council it was finally agreed that the town should accept three lots, fronting on Victoria Street, east of the Union Bank property, in return for a strip designated in red on a plan submitted, bearing on the south side of the street opposite Block Twelve, and in front of and adjoining the Greenhill hotel property.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT. HOLDING BOYS RESPONSIBLE

In connection with the death of little four-year-old Annette Coccioni, which occurred at Coleman last week, following an accident, the jury brought in the following verdict:

"We, the jury, agree that Annette Coccioni came to her death on April 27th through being struck on the head by one of two horses whose riders were Joe Oswald and Ray Dunlop, on April 24th, at 5:30 p.m., in front of Coccioni's grocery store, second street west."

"We conclude from evidence submitted that the accident was caused through carelessness of the above-named riders."

The jury was composed of C. S. Scott, foreman; George Pattinson, W. N. Donaldson, John Johnston, J. A. McDonald and J. L. Lansbury.

The two youths, Oswald and Dunlop, come up for trial today, on a charge of manslaughter.

The ladies of St. Anne's church will hold a whit drive at the Greenhill Grill on Tuesday evening next, commencing at 8:15 sharp.

Alf. Cummings of Fernie, civil engineer, has secured a contract for surveying two new subdivisions for the town of Coleman and started the work this week.

A barn belonging to Hon. Perrin Baker, minister of education, was destroyed with all its contents by fire at Nemiscum yesterday.

A Daughter Of The Ranch

A Story of Romance and Adventure of Western Pioneer Days

Her rippling laugh at his retort indicated that she appreciated the humor of his allusion. "Yes," she said, "while we are really honest thieves, and have been discovered by the police with stolen horses in our possession, we trust to the pardoned honor of our prisoner, and the goodness of our aim, to hold our capture in abeyance."

In this way they travelled three deep and dark miles of the trail of the journey. They kept up a spirit of conversation that covered in its range many topics of interest. College educated himself, Ronald found that his companion's range of reading had covered the works of all well-known authors, which they were both able to discuss with understanding and interest. The group that surprised him.

Expressing surprise at their unusual accomplishments in that respect, he asked them how it was. In reply Mr. Fraser said that he had seen many advantages, under which they were placed, by being so far removed from schools and other advantages for their number, the company having long hours of the winter nights in reading in turns to each other, and in discussing the works they read. He said the four of them had been very interesting, and thus the loneliness of their home life in the lack of neighbors and social advantages were largely overcome.

The interesting information heightened his admiration for his companions. Being of a studious and literary turn of mind himself, their conversational powers interested him. He seemed to him, as he also seemed to be entertaining to them. In this way the otherwise tedious hours of the long trip were quickly passed.

By Ronald the weariness of his two days exertions was forgotten in the pleasure he experienced in the society of his friends, and in the company of his side. Her sprightly bearing under the strain through which she had passed, and through which she was still passing, indicated a vitality that seemed to surpass human endurance. Showing no sign of weariness, she kept up her part of the conversation with vivacity and charm, which had made many surprised him.

Toward the late hours of the afternoon they reached the foot of the mountains. Here in order to let the people of their settlement were taking in the disappearance of her daughter, she had not been surprised if she had given several guesses to the following morning. She told them that she would be pleased to see as many of them as felt like coming. "We have had pleasure to entertain them the best we can."

After a refreshing bath in the cool waters of the lake, Ronald was strolling along the shore, when he decided to gallop ahead, and was the first bearer of the good news. Accordingly setting spurs to her horse, she rode away over the hills, and down the first ridge of hills. Within an hour of her departure, they reached the house and soon had their horses curtailed. They were soon taken back by a couple of young men from the settlement, who, on learning of the kidnapping, had come to the ranch to offer their assistance.

This was a time of dulcify. Ronald remained behind, chafing with the men, while Mr. Fraser went into the house to rejoin the family. Both men had been engaged in temporary service during the rebellion. What interested them chiefly was, however, the particulars regarding the abduction. They evidently had learned something of the events from Miss Fraser, and therefore had been desirous of hearing more of the details, which they endeavored to make him their informant. He accordingly related the facts to them.

Mr. Fraser had now appeared at the door, and invited them into the house. As Ronald entered the large room, Mrs. Fraser, still showing the signs of distress, but much calmer, was there to greet him. Taking his extended hand into both her own she held it clasped while for a few moments, until he had finished his story, she scanned his face with eyes dimmed with tears of joy and happiness. Composing herself, at last she said: "Oh, Dr. Fraser, you are God! Please enter this seat you out—when he did to save our child! I cannot find words to express our deep gratitude to you for what you have done for us. But I am afraid we will all be gone."

"Mrs. Fraser, it is sufficient reward for me to have earned your gratitude. What was fortunate to have been in a position to do for you, I could do at any time when I was needed. We were fortunate in being able to save your daughter in time before harm had come to her, and to have her brought home safe and sound. In itself I feel that I am well rewarded. What I have done, with the assistance of Mr. Fraser, was only justice. If I had not done what I would have done in the same position. At the same time, Mrs. Fraser, I thank you for your most kind words."

"Many thanks, Dr. Fraser, that she has gone through, and she feels more than grateful to you for what you have done. It was a sore trial for us while he was here, but God has been good to us in restoring our daughter to us without harm. While we feel that we shall never be able to repay you for what you have done for us, our gratitude and blessings shall follow you in the years to come wherever you may be."

Deeply interested, the two men remained to express themselves. "It is kind of you to say that Mrs. Fraser, and I shall ever bear that in mind."

The travellers informed them their intention to stay on their return to the ranch, and to assist him in his master of local and home interest. This was kept till the dusk of the evening, when Mrs. Fraser suggested retiring, and taking a long rest in the evening. The men, in the meantime, sat around and engaged in conversation till the dinner was prepared. Mr. Fraser, who was in his chair, was yielding to nature's demand for sleep.

"Mr. Macrae," said Mrs. Fraser, "you must excuse me for being so soon ready and laden with everything to tempt the appetite. After inviting them to sit in the room, and the steward and call her daughter, who was dressing for the dinner.

The few moments that preceded the dinner were filled with exciting incidents for Ronald, who had been seated on female lap with a rapidly pulsating heart. As she was rising from her room, he accompanied him from his chair at the table and, stepping back, he drew out the chair reserved for her own left. As she seated herself, he took his place at the table to accommodate size, was soon ready and laden with everything to tempt the appetite. After inviting them to sit in the room, and the steward and call her daughter, who was dressing for the dinner.

"Goodnight, mother dear," added Mrs. Fraser, as she hugged and kissed her mother affectionately on retiring.

Ronald was shown to his room a short time after this by Mr. Fraser, who had been in the kitchen, where the upper door of the house was divided. While the room whose rank walls were whitewashed was simple, and the furniture was made furnishings, evidently the handy work of Mr. Fraser himself, it was neat, tidy and clean, and as suggestive of taste as the lower apartment of the house. When he had settled himself in his chair, he turned to his host, his mental agitation. Trained in the art of table manners, and conscious of common usage, he had but paid a natural degree of attention to those around him. "She, 'to the manner born,' responded with equal grace.

Mr. Fraser, seated at the head of the table and gesticulating with his hands, was soon ready and laden with everything to tempt the appetite. After inviting them to sit in the room, and the steward and call her daughter, who was dressing for the dinner.

Her full blue-gray eyes, encircled by long curved dark lashes, were overhanging by dark slight shadows, brown and a reddish tint forehead. Her fair features showed strength and resilience, leading the way to attention among many. In face the woman did not differ in distinction rather than in beauty. Her skin, while showing evidences of weather tan, still retained its natural smoothness and softness of texture. In appearance she was a picture of health and perfect physical development. She had that strength of carriage and poise that is characteristic of her sex.

Interesting Stories For Young Folks

Lots of young people would like to be well known, and called a genius, and a prodigy, and when they are, as they passed by, well, genius is just swearing over things. Genius means hard work. It means being intense; that is, a work of singular effort, pulled out. We call it tenacity. It is the pulled out elastic that, when let go, makes the power of your catapult. Columbus was a genius, and a great man. In his journal is found this sentence: "That day we sailed westward, which was our course."

Flirting With Death

Locomotive Engineer Calls Attention to Recklessness of Auto Drivers

The law of the recklessness is the name given to that strange gamble with death which reckless automobile essay when they try to beat the railway train to the crossing by W. G. Johnston, member of the Alberta legislature and locomotive engineer. Mr. Johnston represents the district of Medicine Hat as a labor member. His characterization of reckless motor car drivers was given in the legislature at Edmonton when a law to compel all motor cars to come to a stop before crossing a level railway track was under discussion. He requested the legislature on behalf of the locomotive engineers of the province, to insert a clause in the Vehicle and Highway Traffic Act requiring it obligatory for motorists to stop their vehicles before driving over any railway crossing. Mr. Johnston stated that the heroes of locomotive engineers, especially on main line trains, are getting ragged on account of the confessed carelessness and recklessness of automobile drivers who seemed to prefer flirting with death to losing a few seconds of time while pausing at a railway crossing. He also asked that engineers be given an equal break with motor car drivers in the matter of alleged negligence. He pointed out that in every accident between a motor car and a railway train witnesses were ready to swear that the driver of the train had not rung his bell or blown his whistle, so when, as a matter of fact, engineers had come to the point where it is the practice to start the bell ringing when leaving a terminal and keep it ringing to the end of the run. On a vote the amendment was defeated, only five members supporting it.

When John Golden first planned to send Thomas Jefferson, Bease Bacon, Charles E. Evans and a real all-star cast on tour of the principal Canadian cities, several of his colleagues predicted dire results. The expense of sending such an organization for long jumps through a rather sparsely settled section of the country was regarded by older producers as precluding any chance for profit. But the tour has been a brilliant success, financially as well as artistically. An enormous gross was registered during the company's two weeks' engagement in Winnipeg and packed theatres have been the rule in the cities since.

During the Edmonton and Calgary engagements the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be played. The Empire Theatre in Edmonton is now conducting its regular box office sale for the week of the 12th and the Grand Theatre, Calgary, is filling mail order for the week of the 19th.

THE DELICATE GIRL

What Mothers Should Do As Their Daughters Approach Womanhood

If growing girls are to become well-developed, healthy women, their health must be carefully guarded. Mothers should not ignore their unbroken innocence, nor should they let them forget that of approaching womanhood.

This measure was a private members' bill moved by W. M. Adamson, and seconded by Miss Jewishon, of the Labor party. If this bill should be carried, every Tory of the old school will feel that a revolution has indeed occurred, of which none can predict the outcome.

If the franchise is extended to women on the same terms as to men, it will mean the addition of four and a half million new women voters to the eight millions on the register. This would mean that the women voters would outnumber the male voters by 1,934,918.—Toronto Star.

TO DESTROY PESTS

In an effort to encourage the destruction of agricultural pests, namely gophers, crows and magpies, the department of agriculture at Edmonton has inaugurated a system of prizes. Cash prizes ranging from $1 to $100 will be paid by the department for gopher tails, feet and eggs of crows and magpies, taken in 1924, or before September 1st. Points will be awarded as follows: One point for each gopher tail, two points for each crow's foot, two points for each magpie's foot, 1½ points for each crow's or magpie's egg. The following are the competitions:

1. $200 to the game protection association, league or gun club in Calgary or Edmonton obtaining the greatest number of points. Over 10,000 points must be earned to qualify.

2. $200 for the first and $100 for the second prize to the game protection league or the gun club in places other than Calgary or Edmonton. Over 5,000 points must be earned to qualify.

3. A total of $35 prizes, from $1 to $75, for the residents of Alberta securing the greatest number of points. Points earned by individuals in competitions one and two will be allowed. Two hundred points must be earned to qualify.

4. The five village or rural schools earning the greatest number of points will in their order be awarded five prizes, ranging from $10 to $20. Over 2500 points must be earned to qualify.

5. All persons attending a separate, public or high school may compete in this. A total of $35 cash prizes ranging from $1 to $75 will be paid in their order to those obtaining the highest number of points. Points earned by any individual in competition four will be allowed. Two hundred points must be earned to qualify.

Further information on these contests may be had from Game Commission Lawton, government buildings, Edmonton.

STAY OF EXECUTION EXPIRES

Toronto, May 5.—The stay of execution, which was granted by the court to shareholders of the Home Bank of Canada who did not dispute their liabilities, expired on May 1st. Action will now be taken against those who have failed to take advantage of the period of grace allowed. Numerous last-minute payments were made.

L. Weldon, co-liquidator with G. T. Clarkson, explained that the court had rendered a judgment against the shareholders and then had entered them as contributors and granted a stay of proceedings. Those who had fulfilled their obligations were now liable for action in the same way as ordinary debtors would be.

"It is a case for the sheriff and bailiff from now on," Mr. Weldon declared, "and the ones who suffer have only themselves to blame." He pointed out that in this connection, from this time on the owners of Home Bank shares will not only be subject to double liability but in addition they will be forced to face interest charges and full cost. Double liability did not mean that double the face value of the stock must be paid in.

"There are quite a few persons who seem to have the wrong idea about this," he said. "Already this morning two women have remitted twice as much as they should. All they are liable for is enough money to cover the face value of their stock." The double idea comes in that they have

BUY HARD COAL MINE

(Edmonton Journal)

The sale reported to Southern Alberta coal interests of the McLeod River Hard Coal Company's property on the coal branch of the Canadian National. The mine of the company is located about five miles from the junction point of Coalspur and the principal owners are J. G. Scott and N. Gurvich, of Prince Rupert.

The mine for some time was being operated by a party of Siberians, but the controlling interest was later acquired by Mr. Scott. The mine has a capacity output of about 150 tons per day and caters largely to the domestic market. It was opened in 1920.

The interests who have acquired the property are said to be the same as are in control of the McGillivray Coal and Coke Co. at Coleman. The president of that company is James A. Nowell, of St. Paul, Minn., and the vice-president is Lorne A. Campbell, of Rossland, B.C. The same company has recently acquired some coal lands in the Saunders Creek district. The McGillivray mine is one of the largest in the province.

The mine is idle at the present time owing to the strike.

being an increase of $1,333,227.91 as compared with the same period of 1923.

Because of prohibition and the wholesale manufacture of home-brew liquor, some remarkable results are being attained. Recently some experiments have been made with Blaimeore-manufactured gin. Two light drinks were given to a man who had neither legs nor arms and who hadn't tasted a drop of the crater for seventeen years. That man climbed the ladder from the cellar, rushed out doors, climbed the nearest telephone pole, shinned along the wires for seven blocks and stopped immediately over Mar Poy's restaurant. Here he held on with one hand and grabbed the phone with the other. The lunch came up in due course and he ate it. In seven hours the entire man had walked westward.

"It is a case for the sheriff and bailiff from now on," Mr. Weldon declared, "and the ones who suffer have only themselves to blame." He pointed out that in this connection, from this time on the owners of Home Bank shares will not only be subject to double liability but in addition they will be forced to face interest charges and full cost. Double liability did not mean that double the face value of the stock must be paid in.

There are quite a few persons who seem to have the wrong idea about this," he said. "Already this morning two women have remitted twice as much as they should. All they are liable for is enough money to cover the face value of their stock." The double idea comes in that they have

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Mr. John Makin is putting the finishing touches to his fence around the ranch.

Several new residences are in contemplation of being built as soon as weather is suitable.

Mr. and Mrs. John Maddison are at present visiting their fruit ranch near Duck Lake.

Mrs. White and Mrs. E. McCulloch left a few days ago to spend a well earned vacation at the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Blacky, accompanied by Mr. P. Salt, motored to Lethbridge on Saturday, returning the following day.

Tony and his wife, late last at the Union Hall, is moving with his family to Fernie, with intention of residing there permanently.

From the number of cattle roaming around the streets, quite a number people will be taxed heavily for stock raising. These increases are always noticeable after the assessor has been around.

Miss Alice Taylor and Mr. Donald Gossard, who attended normal school at Calgary during the past year, have accepted positions as teachers at Noblesford and Maple Leaf, respectively.

The many Hillcrest friends of Rev. H. Peters, of Bellevue, will rejoice to hear of his decision to leave the district in the near future, but at the same time wish him well in his new sphere.

The fire which destroyed the homes of Robert Stanhouse, Mike Fibre and M. Watshak on Friday morning might have had more serious results were it not for the untiring efforts of the Hillcrest fire department.

A house party took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Baines, Utopia Lake, on Saturday evening where an enjoyable evening was spent. The invited guests were Mr. R. Croighton, Mrs. M. A. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mackie, Mr. and Mrs. A. Croighton, Mr. and Mrs. Baines (senior), Mrs. Christensen and Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Gossard.

The Hillcrest church will on Sunday next, May 13th, hold their annual Mothers' Day service. Preparations have been made to make the service a very impressive one. The audience will be entertained by a band to render appropriate music. Readings will be given by members of the C. G. I. T. Miss Jenie Stobbs and Mr. Tonks will sing. Special leaflets will render an anthem. Special leaflets will render a hymn for the service.

Directors of the British Empire Exposition in London have set the dates for the engagement of the Edmonton newsboys' band at the exposition for the last three weeks in July and first three weeks in August.

The Alberta Methodist conference meets in Calgary on May the 29th.

We admire the pluck of the Pincher Creek town council in turning down an advertising proposition of a city daily paper. Pincher Creek was a sucker last season and we venture to say "never got their money's worth."

The idea of supporting the home paper is seldom or never given a thought.

Correct this sentence: "On Saturday last every goash darn citizen of Blairmore was entertained at lunch by a Jew." After luncheon each guest became the recipient of a 25-cent cigar and twenty-five cents in cash. On leaving there was one solid round of osculation."

A levy of fifty cents per week per man has been announced by the provisional executive of District 26 of the U. M. W. of A., to pay off the $150,000 debt incurred in the form of relief orders during the suspension of work in Nova Scotia for several weeks. At the time it was generally understood that the amount would be met by international funds, as John L. Lewis was supposed to be backing them. However, when the contract had been signed and matters came to a show-down, the International refused to come through and the merchants of the district were left up in the air.

At the annual meeting of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, Limited, at Brilliant, B.C., on Monday of last week Peter Vergen was re-elected president. Paul Potapoff, of Cowley, was elected on the board of directors.

The new all-steel observation sleeping cars, the latest in Pullman construction, have just been put into service on the International Limited, the crack train of the Canadian National Railways between Montreal and Chicago.

This idea of awarding a contract to an outsider who under-bids the local man is not always a good policy, for while the outsider can complete his job and leave the district, leaving any changes or repairs to come to become a special and additional charge, the local man has to stay with it and any changes or repairs necessary will bind him to the contract he signed up to bear without any further compensation.

ALBERTA CATTLE FOR JAPAN

For the purpose of testing out the possibilities of the market for Alberta livestock in Japan, a shipment of 28 steers and cows, and two horses, was made this week from Edmonton. The shipment is being made under the personal direction of H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, who will accompany it to Japan, and while there will investigate the possibilities for a market for various classes of Alberta products. The cattle shipment is made of 14 head each of steers and cows, weighing from 2200 to 1450 pounds each, and made up of selections of Shorthorns, Herefords and Aberdeen Angus chiefly.

Most of the cattle were bought on the Edmonton stock yards, while three head were fed at Olds agricultural school and five at Athabasca demonstration farm. One grade Clydesdale mare and one grade Percheron mare are also in the shipment. The trial shipment is made as a result of arrangements made by Hon. George Headley, through Edgar Nobles, formerly of Edmonton, now representing several Alberta firms in Japan.

It scarcely seems fair that the local taxpayers face the bill for a heavy tax on the privilege of doing business here when outside printing firms are privileged to send their agents to canvas the business men and obtain orders without having to pay a heavy tax to keep up the business in. Without such a tax the local printer starts out with a handicap that is difficult to overcome.

SAME OLD STORY

It has just been discovered that the Egyptian world of 500 B.C. was ruled entirely by women and that they wore their hair bobbed. That is interesting if true, but why should it be printed as news, and in what way did the conditions of the old Egyptian world differ from those of the present time?

They also say that Isis, the goddess, was regarded as the ruler of the world. In fact, the ladies had everything their own way. But there isn't anything startling in that. We don't question that Egyptian women had everything their own way. That isn't news, and doesn't differ from the existing conditions of today. Women haven't changed a whole lot since the time of Isis.

FOUNDATION FOR GOOD BUSINESS YEAR

The railways are steadily laying the foundation for a year of good business, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which reports that thus far car loadings justify considerable optimism. For the month of March there was an increase of 56,029 carloads over the corresponding month of 1923, or a gain of 24.4 per cent. Since the opening of 1924 the betterment has amounted to 430 carloads.

Next he put in special spark plugs guaranteed to save another 20 per cent, also intake super heater that was guaranteed to save 20 per cent. His next purchase was a patented rear axle to save 20 per cent. Finally he put on "oversize" cords that promised a 20 per cent saving on gasoline. Now with a saving of 100 per cent on fuel the owner has to stop every 100 miles and bail out the gas tank to keep it from running over.

Hon. George Headley, minister of agriculture, who has been appointed special commissioner to represent Alberta at the British Empire Exposition, as guest of the Dominion government, left for England this week. He will spend some time at the Exposition in behalf of this province, and will also visit several places in the British Isles. Mr. Headley will have with him a set of motion pictures recently compiled on Alberta, and will also have other publicity material. He will also probably visit the continent in the interests of immigration to Alberta.

National Unity And A National Policy

A Toronto financial paper deplores the fact that Canada "is apparently the only country in the world in which the absence of national unity and patriotism seem to stand out and in which strong antagonism exists between classes and sections," and it urges "all to wipe out the past and its mistakes, and for all classes to get together and agree on a great, definite, national policy that will unite sections, classes and interests for the upbuilding of Canada and Canadianism."

It is unfortunately only too true that there's a lack of unity, patriotism and national spirit in Canada, and the advice given in the above quotation is good. But the very paper which thus urges unity and a get-together spirit denounces the Budget proposals at Ottawa for certain lower tariff duties as being "based largely on prejudice," and declares that the reductions in duties are "a great disappointment to all thoughtful, far-seeing, loyal Canadians."

Is national unity to be developed in Canada by leading journals in the East stigmatizing the great body of Westerners who believe in tariff reduction as disloyal, lacking in vision, and thoughtless of the future of their country? If it is not quite possible, may more than probable, that the men of the West look over their boundless prairies have greater vision than the men cooped up in the factories and counting houses of Eastern cities?

This Eastern spokesman for Eastern financial and industrial interests goes on to say: "It is said that our sixty trading countries have increased their protective tariffs, while in Canada we have had five reductions in five years," and we are told that "it would be possible for us Canadians to claim superior intelligence or greater wisdom. In economic matters, however, men cooped up in the factories and counting houses of Eastern cities?"

While it would be of passing interest to have the names of six "leading" nations—we confess we did not know there were so many in the class of leaders—it is more to the point to say that a policy which may suit these older, more thickly populated, and highly developed industrial nations is not necessarily the policy best adapted to a young, sparsely settled and largely agricultural country like Canada.

In a world gone mad over tariff protection, and with steadily rising tariffs elsewhere, Canada has gone on reducing tariffs, one would imagine that, if our Eastern protectionist advocates are correct in their theories, conditions in Canada would be steadily becoming worse. But this same financial journal has for months past been devoting columns of space in reciting the steady betterment taking place in Canada.

The same issue containing the "wall" from which we have quoted also gives facts and figures to show the "substantial" benefit which the tariff changes will confer on the whole mining industry of the Dominion. "And why should the Parliament of Canada take action to benefit the mining industry?" Are the manufacturers alone deserving of consideration?

Still another article in the issue from which we are quoting is devoted to showing that "the West's prosperity is a barometer for all business," that "the Western wheat crop is of vital concern to business enterprise from Halifax to Vancouver," that "the agricultural West now furnishes the life-blood to a huge proportion of Canada," and it quotes approvingly the statement in a recent Government report that "whole communities, divorced from direct farm pursuits, owe their rise and growth largely to the agricultural settlement of the prairies."

If through a reduction in the tariff on the implements of farm production greater prosperity and development is encouraged throughout the whole industry of agriculture, is not all business, including manufacturing, going to reap the benefit? If we are to accept this financial journal's own conclusions and arguments the answer is emphatically "yes." In fact, if the Eastern manufacturer would only use that far-sighted vision with which he is credited throughout the world, he stands to gain far more than he can possibly lose through tariff reduction.

As for the inconsistencies of its own position, the most amazing thing about this same journal's outcry against the tariff changes is its frank admission that "in this turning to the free trade policy the Government is giving the country what the majority think they want." Well, if the majority of Canadians want it, then it is the duty of the Government and Parliament under our system of responsible representative government to abide by and grant the will of the majority and not refuse it at the behest of a manufacturing minority.

It is becoming more generally recognized that what Canada needs at the present stage of its development is not so much a high tariff wall to make the Canadian market a protected preserve for the manufacturers, but a fiscal policy which will populate the country, settle our vacant acres, develop our wealth of natural resources, and bring prosperity to the masses of our producing population.

Salvage Work Difficult

Gold Bars Still Being Taken From Wreck of Laurentic

There are now only 15 bars of gold worth $1,200,000 on the wreck of the Laurentic, which was sunk during the war, and the salvage ship Rover will shortly endeavor to recover these, said Commander G. C. C. Damant in the course of a lecture at the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, London.

Four boxes of gold weighing 140 pounds each were recovered in such short time when the work started that it seemed as if operations would be finished in a week. A fierce gale sprang up, however, and the wreck collapsed, making salvage work very difficult. Of the 3,211 bars which went down with the ship, 3,067 have been recovered during operations extending over six summers at a cost of two and one-half per cent.

How the English Make Toffee

Old-Fashioned Candies Are Best For the Young Folks

Speaking of children, was there ever a child who didn't like toffee? If more of these old-fashioned candies were made at home there would be fewer cases of spolled stomachs in our households and fewer young men and women who take tablets for "indigestion."

The best toffee is made in this manner: Mix four cups of brown sugar and half a cup of corn syrup with half a cup of water, and put on the fire, stirring carefully until all the sugar is dissolved. Let this come to a boil and then take off the fire and add four tablespoons of butter. Put the mixture back on the stove once more and boil until the butter has penetrated throughout the mass. Turn onto a greased, enameledware tray of the right size for the kind and, as the candy cools, mark it into squares. When it has cooled, break these apart and wrap each piece separately in wax paper. Incidentally, you will find the labor of "cleaning up" is a great deal less if you have used an enameled ware saucerpan for the cooking, since even the stickiest mixtures do not adhere long to its porcelain-like surface.

A Lead Towards Moderation

Some Word Power Must vindicate Its Faith in Disarmament

Without utterly disarming itself in an armed world, someone or other has got to give a lead towards moderation. Somewhere or other a power must vindicate its good faith about all-round disarmament by keeping its own armament notably low. Otherwise the general will-to-disarm will never begin. Of course there is some measure of risk in this setting of the generous example. But there is risk about almost everything that is worth doing, and most of Europe's recent miseries have arisen from the chimerical ambitions of one power or another to secure an absolute physical security which is in truth, utterly unattainable. The sane policy for nations, for individual men, is neither to court the most obvious and gravest peril nor to dream of eliminating peril completely from their lives.—The Manchester Guardian.

ROBERT FORKE SAYS BUDGET IS STEP FORWARD

Ottawa.—"I utterly deny and repudiate that there has been any bargaining between this group and any other group in this House," said Robert Forke, Progressive leader, in the course of the budget debate referring to statements made in the House and on the political platform that the government had bargained with the Progressives for their support.

"So far as I know," added Mr. Forke, "no group in this House is under any obligation to support any other group. So far as I am concerned, I am pledged to support no group except the one which did me the honor to make me its leader."

"I stated in the opening of the session that the government would get Progressive support when it brought down Progressive measures. I repeat that statement today."

He would not vote for the Woodsworth amendment because it meant nothing. To support it would compel him to vote against the budget, which he believed to be better for the country than the "green gesture" contained in the amendment.

"Anybody in this House thinks that the Progressive movement is done, he is vastly mistaken," continued Mr. Forke. "In Great Britain progressive government is an accomplished fact. In the United States there is a drastic change impending in the system of government. We of this group see brighter things ahead."

The Progressive leader then commented on conditions in Europe, the reports that population was increasing and production decreasing, and expressed the opinion that building up tariff walls would not help to solve Europe's problems. He deprecated the idea that Canada should follow Europe's example in the tariff. Britain, whatever anybody might say, was free trade. The comparison made by the Conservatives between Canada and the United States was not responsible. The United States had the advantage of climatic conditions, of great industrial development, and of the huge war profit she made before entering the war.

He regarded the budget as a step forward. Canada had turned the corner and started in a new direction, and he hoped the government would continue in that direction. But he agreed with the member from Brome (A. R. McMaster) that there was no reason why the budget should not be presented in simple language, which could be understood by the man on the street. The financial conditions of the country should be apparent by simple methods of bookkeeping.

Economy in administration was a desirable aim, Mr. Forke said, but he hoped that health and education would not be overlooked. Both were of paramount importance.

From the ranks of the Liberals, E. A. Lapierre, of Nipissing, came forward in defense of the budget. He declared that the government had not been troubled by the tariff, and the speaker. The acting minister of finance had taken care of the four industry.

Hon. G. P. Graham, as vice-president of the Canadian Foundations, had said that certain iron products were given tariff benefits. Never had there been such a combine as shown by the ministers of this government, in protecting the industries in which they themselves were interested.

From the ranks of the Conservatives, Hon. J. G. Clark (Conservative, Burford), said that the budget was a gross misrepresentation of the true state of the country's finances. He challenged the government to go to the country and ask for their mandate from the Laurier-Pinchbeck tariff party "and see what the result is."

Mr. Dauchman said a separate report probably would be issued on the Vancouver sessions, and that an interim report would not be made.

Predicts Coming Of International Peace

London.—Prime Minister MacDonald in his May Day message to Labor and the Socialist movement, expresses the hope that another May Day will see the League of Nations transformed into an "all-embracing parliament of peoples," and predict the coming of a day of international peace.

"The nations, tired of conflict and disillusioned of their war dreams and war mentality, are seeking new paths that make for friendship and security," said the Prime Minister.

Alberta Farmers Now Have Sufficient Help

Demands Practically Satisfied to April 30 Say Labor Officials

Edmonton.—Alberta is now pretty well caught up on its labor supply for spring farm work, according to officials of the provincial labor branch. To the end of April, 4,477 placements of all kinds have been made by the several labor offices of the branch since the first of the year, and in April alone the number has been 2,400. For the four months there have been 2,700 more placements than in the same period last year. Farm wages run from $25 to $50 per month, and the farmers' demands have been practically satisfied to date.

There is still a shortage, however, in domestic help and the new arrivals of old country immigrants are being awaited for relief in this respect.

Churches Back Up Plea For Participation in Court

Washington.—Leaders in church organization, industry, the bar and the field of education have joined United States participation in the world court by signing a petition to the Senate foreign relations committee.

The Federal Council of Churches, claiming membership of 20,000,000, gave its endorsement to the court.

The several speakers declared the court had been set up largely through United States initiative, was to all practical purposes free from the League of Nations, and met the demands of the "great majority of the thinking public of America."

Steel Station Safe

Port William, Ont.—When the station agent at the Westport Canadian National Railway depot entered his office he found the safe missing. Robbers had entered the building early in the morning, carried the iron safe, weighing a quarter of a ton, 50 yards, and pried it open. For their trouble they obtained several checks, valued at $180, some blank money orders and $100 in stamps.
